

January 2009 - Current Key Openings

Vice President – Sales & Marketing – Gray/Ductile

Midwestern Location – Profitable and growing gray and ductile iron foundry seeks an experienced and progressive sales and marketing leader. Reports to President. Excellent compensation package includes a solid base salary and realistic, achievable bonus, based on experience and performance.

Maintenance Manager – Successful Iron Foundry

Industry-leading, diverse gray and ductile iron foundry company is searching for a top-notch maintenance manager. Will direct a team of forty capable people. Position focus is effective leadership, organization, preventive and predictive maintenance systems. Salary $80's to $90's, depending on experience and ability.

Director of Engineering - Aerospace Foundry

Non-ferrous aerospace sand foundry, located in Midwestern US. Profitable, growing and very busy company. No recession in their markets! We are seeking someone with strong aerospace castings background, in any casting process. Key is product engineering and engineering management abilities, with knowledge of stringent aerospace requirements.

Quality Manager – Diverse Iron Jobbing Foundry

Great company! Seeking a degreed metallurgist with quality assurance background and capability. Will manage the quality function as well as aid with process issues, as a key customer contact. Room for advancement. This is the kind of employer that people go to work for and stay their entire career.

Aerospace Investment Casting General Manager – China

Major Asian investment casting company is seeking a senior aerospace investment casting technical, engineering and management executive to directly manage a foundry in China while spearheading product-line growth. One to two year (flexible) focus in China, with permanent location in a major US city. Compensation is open, well in six-figures, and includes off shore perks including full housing, living expenses, car with driver, trips home, etc.

Tooling Manager – Multi-Plant Gray/Ductile Disamatic Foundry

Corporate location, interfacing with customers and working with key foundry engineering and technical leaders in the design and development of tooling, as well as all pre-production engineering, from concept through first piece.

Sales Engineer – Northeastern US Office

Gray and ductile iron foundry that specializes in medium and large castings for a broad range of customers. Will work from home office, calling on new and existing customers in the Northeastern US. Excellent compensation package, as well as opportunity for career growth.

Steel Castings Sales Account Manager

Successful carbon, low alloy and high alloy steel foundry, with focus in wear resistant steel castings applications. Is seeking to replace a key Sales Account Manager who retired. Another very good company with a strong record of success.

Investment Casting Engineer - Midwestern US

Steel Foundry Manager - Midwestern US

This is a sampling of current openings, as we obtain new job openings virtually every day.

Let us confidentially keep you advised of opportunities that could fit your career goals.

Complete our Contact Form at <http://www.glborchert.com/for-candidates.php> and we will call you.